The system utilized infrared camera technology to capture data from vehicle license plates and cross-reference the data with local, regional and statewide databases.

Commander John Radcliff, head of the Sheriff's Department Office of Technology Planning, displayed slides and discussed technology being tested for law enforcement uses. He stated that the Department was particularly interested in the development of tools that could be used to resolve conflicts without the need for deadly force.
3.1 • AUTOMATIC LICENSE PLATE RECOGNITION TECHNOLOGY – Continued
Council Member Esquivel stated he was impressed with the demonstration of the License Plate Recognition program and inquired if there was any system currently in testing that would identify weapons concealed in buildings or vehicles. Commander Radleff responded by stating that although there was no such technology currently available, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department was one of the most pro-active law enforcement agencies in testing new technology for law enforcement uses.

Vice Mayor Croft thanked the Commander for the briefing and stressed the importance of deploying technologies that would not only enhance safety for the deputies in the field, but provide improved safety for the communities they protect.

The Deputy City Manager concluded her report by stating the ALPR equipment, including installation and three years maintenance, was available through PIPS Technology. It was the recommendation of staff that the City Council appropriate $29,492.06 for the purchase of a Mobile Automated License Plate Recognition System.

Council Member Rogers determined from Ms. Ruyle that although purchased for use by the Sheriff's Department, the ALPR system would remain City property.
